Recently our group took a survey about college life. Twenty sophomores participated in this survey. We prepared 4 questions for this survey. They were:

“How do you arrange your time over the weekend?”

“How do you improve your English?”

“Are you satisfied with your major?”

“What’s your feeling about college life?”

For the first question, 70% of the respondents always surf the internet and sleep at the weekends. Only 20% of them do their homework and some reading in the library. 20% of the girls like shopping and 30% of the boys often do sports. The others think they should have a good rest at the weekend.

When it comes to the second question, everyone thinks it is very important for us to improve English. 55% think that listening to teachers carefully at class is of importance. After class, singing a lot of English songs or watching English films can also help a lot. 10% of them suggest that we should read short English essays every day. 35% of them realize that enlarging vocabulary is of the ultimate importance.

As for the third question, 12 of them give a definite answer “yes”, 8 of them said their current major was not their favorite, but they came to like it gradually.

At last, for the question, “What’s your feeling about college life?” 4 students thought the college life was very comfortable and relaxing. 10 students said more activities had been provided to improve their all-round ability and let them more independent. 6 students said the college life was a bit tiring since they couldn’t depend on their parents. But all of them consider it a good idea to join in many different clubs.

Through this survey, we realize that we should cherish our college life. We should take part in different activities to make our college life more colorful.
